

Access and Use of Craig MacFarland's Field Notes

It is our intent that users may use short quotations with proper attribution of the source of such material, but that specific permission must be requested for extended quotation and or analysis/synthesis or publication from these documents. Such permission should be sought and may be granted by either of the authors (Craig MacFarland or Thomas Fritts), or the designated representative of the University of Wisconsin Zoological Museum responsible for herpetological holdings.